Association for Convention Operations Management Turns 20!

Olympian Cary Mullen Keynotes ACOM's 20th Annual Conference in Seattle

Princeton Junction, NJ – October 1, 2007 – The Association for Convention Operations Management (ACOM) will kick off its 20th Annual Conference January 11-13, 2008 at the Westin Seattle. The association will target a host of educational and networking opportunities for attendees from every facet of the industry and will launch a year-long celebration of its 20th anniversary.

Keynote speaker Cary Mullen, Olympian and World Cup champion who holds the World Downhill Speed Record for skiing (97 MPH) opens the conference aimed at continuing ACOM's focus of targeting new and proven ways of servicing the needs of meeting planners. An underdog who placed last in his first World Cup race and who survived three near fatal crashes, Mullen used five winning strategies outlined in his "How to Win" book series to become a two-time Olympian and World Cup champion. A highly acclaimed motivational speaker and one of Successful Meetings magazine's "Hot Speakers" in 2006, Mullen is consulted by many international corporations to help achieve better results.

"We believe that Cary's message to our membership will be very inspiring. We're excited that our members will hear his story and believe it complements the spirit of ACOM projects," said Norman Ford, ACOM president. "He brings an upbeat energy in a very important year for our members."

The ACOM conference will provide a variety of presentations and workshops geared to industry professionals in convention and visitor bureaus, convention centers, hotels and resorts. ACOM will also host several networking events, including the Red Hot 20-Year Anniversary Gala at the Seattle Space Needle.
